I was at the Bardic Guildhouse when I saw the famous Gabriel Piete. He was using a device to verify his voice was indeed in tune! It could only be a tuning fork. I have read about them long ago, but nobody I know ever saw a reason to craft one.

He tells me the famed Gregory Ironhand made it for him long ago, before he disappeared. Tis a shame, as upon inspection of the tuning fork, it is wearing out. Iron is not the most durable of ingots for such an item.
I have already looked for Gregory's notes at his residence and found nothing, so I will visit all the tinkers throughout the land in hopes of recreating this marvelous little trinket.
